Pretty Things for Breakfast Wear

Gowns and Jackets in Which the Fashionable Woman Eats Her Morning Meal.

DAINY little house wrappers answer the purpose of breakfast gowns for the hurried housekeeper who has not the wealth of a Gould, a Vanderbilt, a Whitney, a Gerry or a Belmont. But the fashionable woman of New York deems her breakfast gown or breakfast jacket of as much importance as she does her theater or evening gown.

It was at the establishment of my little friend who makes these dainty house gowns that I got my first good idea of the magnificence and expense of these gowns. Of course I have always known that such things were worn more or less, and that the fashion journals gave elaborate directions for making them, but I had supposed that they were more for exceptional use than for everyday wear, even among the very wealthy. But my friend assured me that such was not the case, and that the wealthy women of New York wore these elaborate breakfast toilettes every day.

"If it were not for these half of my business would be gone," said she. "They are as much in demand as are the pretty little tea gowns for afternoon wear, and I believe that I make more of the breakfast gowns than I do of the latter. It was only yesterday that I received an order from Mrs. William R. Garrison for two of the gowns and a jacket that will cost her the price of an elegant evening costume. In fact she wants them made of the very choicest of materials, and of an exclusive design. That means work for my designer, who, by the way, is kept busy these winter days

The revers were trimmed with ruchings of pink ribbon that were carried down to the bottom of the gown on each side of the pink dotted batiste, and also around the bottom of the gown. The oriental sleeves were made to be worn over a shirred lace sleeve and were edged with frills of pink ribbon.

Both of these were far beyond the means of the ordinary woman, and even those with a few thousand a year would consider them too expensive, but the next one that I saw was much less expensive, although in a way quite as pretty.

It was of flowered challie trimmed with valenciennes lace. It was made with a tight-fitting back with a round arranging these exclusive styles for New York's fashionable women.

"Now take this one," continued my friend, as she displayed an elaborate affair of the softest of soft silk. "It will cost its wearer not less than $200."

The gown she showed me was in color shaded from a pink to a gold and resembled nothing so much as the color of a beautiful ripe peach. This was combined with a soft green silk, and an embroidery of shimmering green silk and crystals and the more vivid tones of beetle's wings that were very beautiful on the tight under sleeves which were entirely covered with the lovely embroidery, and having for the background the pale green silk lining of the hanging oversleeves. The long, loose oversleeves were trimmed with a border of the shimmering green silk and crystal. The gown had a low-pointed yoke on the empire style, with the shimmering green silk and crystal embroidery put on in a deep point both in front and in back of the yoke, and the golden pink shaded silk hanging in long, loose folds at the back, with a slight fullness in front.

"That I think is the prettiest thing of its kind that I have made this season," said my little friend, "but here is another that is not far behind it in point of beauty."

The second that she showed me was of a cream batiste trimmed with narrow pink ribbon. The back was made a princess, with a loose front of white batiste with pink silk dots. It had a large turn-back collar in the back and small pointed revers to the waist line.

History repeats itself, and so does hysteria.

"I feel as if I should fly to pieces." How often those words are on a woman's lips. They express to the uttermost the nerve racked condition of the body, which makes life a daily martyrdom.

If this condition had come suddenly it would have been unbearable. But the transition was gradual. A little more strain each day on the nerves. A little more drain each day of the vitality. Any woman would be glad to be rid of such women have been cured by Dr. Pierce's treatment with his "Favorite Prescription" when local doctors had entirely failed to cure.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

Vegetarian Shoes.

Vegetarians who are so strict that they do not care to wear any article of clothing into which any animal properties are introduced are catered for in the boot line by a London boot-maker, who is the inventor of a vegetarian shoe. For some years he has been experimenting, and as the result he has produced a boot in the construction of which there is absolutely no paper or leather of any description. Not only this, but, according to his assertion, these wear one-fourth longer than leather shoes, and the upper material is always soft and never cracks.

Graceful Flattery.

There is nothing that flatters a young housekeeper quite so much as to have an older woman ask her for recipes.—Athenian Globe.
